

As a professional in the field of communications, I know from 50 years of experience that the market for a diversity of messages and points of view has been steadily narrowing. The partisan plan to take actions which would further reduce rather than expand media ownership, in the guise of "modernizing", is disingenuous, misleading, and in my opinion ethically and morally corrupt.